

Cookie Policy

The neku.org.hu website (hereinafter Page), owned by the National Health Research Agency Nonprofit Ltd., uses cookies to provide the best possible online experience and to ensure safe browsing.

The cookie policy specify our use of cookies. The policy provides information on the cookie and how to use it.

The cookie

A cookie is a text file that a Page stores on the device of a user who visits it. This file can be used for numerous things, such as noting the previous visits to the site, comparing content to the characteristics of the visitor's interest, or helping us estimate the expected number of new visitors each month. In addition to the cookie provided by the Site, the use of a cookie is subject to the user's consent, so the Site will only use the cookie to which the user has consented.

What type of cookie does the site use?

Obligatory cookies:

An obligatory cookie is required for the operation of our website and will allow you to visit the Site securely. These are primarily session cookies and are deleted when you leave the website.

By using the Site, the user agrees on the use of cookies that ensure the operation of the site.

For more information on cookies, including how to handle and delete them, visit <http://www.allaboutCookies.org/> or, if you live in the European Union, visit <https://ico.org.uk/for-the-public/online/Cookies/>.